DOMINION DAY

TWO WEEKS from now, Canada will observe Dominion Day as a National Holiday. For many years this has been the one day of the year set aside in Bassano for our annual celebration. Mostly they have been successful and have resulted in the making of much money, every nickle of which has been spent by the Board of Trade in Community Effort. It might surprise those who have not been acquainted with the workings of this body since 1922 to know that over $150,000 has been spent on irrigation, tree planting, swimming pool, weight scales, sports and other enterprises.

The money has been well spent as all agree, and for this reason the sports day on July 1st ought to be supported by all and sundry. In recent years, since the new fair grounds was created, the quality of the entertainment provided, is really well worth the money and ought not to be missed. The officials of the Board of Trade are attempting this year to maintain and improve on the standard of the past and given a decent day, can guarantee a worth while programme, with not an idle minute during the entire afternoon or evening, at moderate prices.

PARTISYEN

DELEGATES attending the meeting of the Liberal Party at Edmonton on Monday of this week voted to adopt or abide by clause two of the printed constitution of the party which reads as follows:

1. The objects of the association shall be:
2. To enunciate and promote liberal principles and policies.
3. To provide for a uniform and democratic system of nomination and to promote the election of Liberal candidates.
4. Generally to do all things calculated to further the above objects.

With the right to come to this decision, no person can have any quarrel. It is still a free country, and if the leaders of the party have decided "never to let the old flag fall," that is their exclusive prerogative.

A letter was presented to the meeting from the Unity Party headed by Mr. John I. MacFarland, which has not yet been published, but which will be replied to by a committee of three appointed for the purpose. In view of the action affirming the constitution of the party, it ought not to be difficult to gauge the attitude of the party officials towards the unity proposal. It merely means liberalism, first, last, and always. Otherwise it would be a denial of the constitution. It means there will be a continuance of party politics as applied to provincial affairs. And, however much this may be regretted, there cannot be any real unity in the proper sense of that word so long as this attitude is maintained.

The meeting was adjourned. Immediately following the Saskatchewan elections, it might not be unfair to suggest that full and complete advantage was taken of the victory there. Likewise, if the result there had not been quite so favourable, it might be reasonable to suggest that the meeting might not have been so anxious to keep the political party standard aloft in this province, with so much alacrity.

A NEEDED CHANGE

OUR country has gone into constitutional independence. Yet there are complainers, there are discontents, and there are dissatisfactions. Gloomy minds believe in social revolution, and dream of a plan whereby everyone can be made comfortable and rich without regard to ability or merit.

In one sense discontent is a good thing—when we appreciate that we have not done our best, and then try again. But there is another kind of discontent—one born of ignorance and jealous envy. It provides opportunity for the opportunist, openings for the cheap candidate for public office, and follows the dictates and sentiments of envy, hatred and malice.

It is impossible to minimize the dangers we find in these discontents.

The first remedy is education. Reduce illiteracy. Preach the fact that no country can be legislated into prosperity. Re-establish the principles of popular democratic government. Let there be a real understanding of problems and solutions. Let there be less blind faith and more thought.

Stop importing citizens of unworthy material. Admit only those of worth and merit. Bar those who come only to destroy. We have given citizenship to those who did not know our principles of government, but were directly opposed to them.

Let every citizen understand policies and politics—not for what may be in, but for the good of the country; to follow questions intelligently; to vote as they believe not as they have been led to look for security, not for a phantom; to in truth adopt "eternal vigilance" as "the price of liberty." OIL IN ALBERTA

TURNER VALLEY is in the spot-light again, via the proration route. Millions of dollars have been spent in the search for oil in Alberta. Much of it has been wasted and never will be recovered. Men have gambled their all. Some have lost fortunes, and others have made fortunes. For many years it was doubtful if the Valley would ever amount to anything really worthwhile. Recent developments have proved that there is oil in Alberta in quantities far exceeding the local demand. The immediate requirement is more markets, and these are not being sufficient on the face of things to absorb the supply, the expedient of proration has been resorted to.

But the tuer part of it is, that right here in Alberta, crude oil imported from the United States is sold in competition with the local product and millions of gallons of the product is imported and sold in Canada annually. One would think that as the only oil field in the British Empire, nothing would be allowed to stand in the way of its exploration and development, except failure in the field itself.

It may be true that so far the field is not big enough to warrant the expense of pipe-lines to the Coast and to the Great Lakes. It may also be true that these should not be built until there is warrented by reasonable assurances of adequate supplies of oil from Turner Valley or elsewhere in Alberta. But proration will never prove that.

All that proration will ever do is conserve the field and ensure supplies of oil for years beyond that of the ordinary life from given producing wells. It will also enable the big oil companies to swallow up the small fry, squeeze them out of the picture, and gain a monopoly, for the reason, that on the present basis of proration, it is quite impossible for the smaller producing wells to conduct operations at a profit, and sooner or later they will be forced to the wall.

The Albertan, Calgary's morning paper, has carried some powerful editorial matter on the subject in recent days, and it would seem, if the facts stated in these editorials bear the test of truth, that a strenuous fight ought to begin to ensure for oil producers from

RECKLESS DRIVING

For years efforts have been made to check reckless automobile driving. Certain groups have tried educational means and governments have passed regulatory laws. But the stream of accidents and deaths goes on apace. Now the federal government is planning to put an even greater curb on reckless driving. It will become an offence to drive recklessly whether or not an accident occurs or damage done, and a person who fails to stop after being involved in an accident will be liable to payment of a heavy penalty.

It is doubtful whether even drastic laws will reduce the number of reckless drivers. It would appear that mankind has really never become ingrained with the danger of driving a motor car at a headlong speed. It is only a generation since the motor car was perfected and it might take a couple of more generations to enable people to learn to drive safely and sensibly.

Meanwhile thousands of people will be killed or maimed because too many automobile drivers do not understand that they are in control of a deadly machine.—Hanna Herald.

BUSINESS GOVERNMENT

It is refreshing for Saskatchewan people to have Mr. Aberhart tell them that what they need is a business government. That province has not been singularly blessed in that way, but on the whole it has probably been administered as well as Alberta, certainly better than Alberta has been in the past two years. A government that issued scrip and recalled; passed a Recall Act and recalled it, imposed a sales tax and withdrew it and passed other Acts that were disallowed by the federal government or declared unconstitutional by the courts, all in less than three years, can hardly claim to be a business government and expect a neighboring province to adopt its pattern. It can lay claim to being an unusual government, but the last thing it should claim is that it is a business government. Its claim to have reduced interest charges and bonded indebtedness is more tenable, but Cardenas of Mexico can make the same claim—Vulcan Advocate.

ABERHART BACK FROM SASKATCHEWAN

Aberhart and his circus band are home from Saskatchewan. They put on a big show for the people down there, but they drew little voting strength. Apparently Saskatchewan does not want press control, confiscation, farm production tax and dictatorship.

Aberhart can sympathize with Napoleon on his retreat from Moscow.

Canada stands to gain some good from the Social Credit invasion of Saskatchewan. No doubt the policy of complete nationalization of the Bank of Canada was hastened by the Saskatchewan crisis. Now that the election is over, Ottawa can risk firm action against unelected Aberhart legislation. This could not be done before June 8 without prejudicing the Saskatchewan position.

Frankly, we expected Aberhart to win about 15 seats in Saskatchewan. At least we did until he and Manning retired to Edmonton to select the Saskatchewan candidates. We couldn't see how Saskatchewan people could fall for such dictatorship—and they didn't.—Clarion Local Press.

STRONG GOVERNMENT NEEDED

The imperative need of Canada today is a strong Federal government. Messrs. Duggan, Hepburn, and Aberhart look big in the nation's eyes because they are positive, dynamic. They know what they want. They are not particular upon whose toes they tread in getting what they want. The more the hurt the "holier" the proof of "results." Comparisons may be odious, nevertheless they do serve useful purposes. Compared to these men, the Hon. Mackenzie King shrinks into insignificance. He is merely the Prime Minister of Canada. According to his "Men of Thought" series, a simple exists to supply the financial needs of the Provinces. The Provinces are the supreme authorities, than whom there is none greater. Ottawa should pay up and shut up. The part has become greater than the whole.

Government, according to the new savours of democracy, is not the same economic administration of affairs of state, but is a cornucopia from whence unlimited wealth will flow unceasingly. The more fantastic, the more mysterious, the "gimme" plan the greater its chance of acceptability by the credulous and unthinking. To pay one's way is no longer the mark of integrity. Only the dumb and foolish honestly meet their indebtedness. A debtor may be richer than his creditor, but the debtor is a martyr while a creditor is a leech or worse. This state of affairs is tacitly encouraged by blanket provincial statutes confiscatory in intent and purpose. The strength of a nation lies in the good character and integrity of its people. Political dishonesty spreads indolently like a cancer and if not checked-mated will destroy the citizenry, the community and the state.

Despite all the balderdash labelled "provincial rights" the fact remains there must of necessity be one Supreme Legislative body with unquestioned power to legislate for the peace, order and good government of the country—else Canada will dissolve into nine "Balkan states of North America."

—The Hanna Herald.

The Valley a measure of protection against foreign competition and thereby abolition of proration and a chance to prove, or disprove Alberta, as a really important factor in the oil markets of the Dominion, if not of the Empire.

O LAISSEZ-FAIRE

SOMEONE, apparently not gifted in French, but very much interested in politics and politicians, claims, after observing the notorious inactivity and somnolence of the present Federal Government that it is not the policy of "laissez-faire" that is the trouble, but that the members of it are just "fair lazy."

"MEN AT WORK!"

The most cheerful sign on the road

"MEN AT WORK" is an encouraging, cheerful sign upon the highway.

It is the happiest sign on the business highway too.

Business enterprise, making wise use of banking service, is the mainspring of employment.

The contractor responsible for that "Men at Work" sign gets the job of building that stretch of highway by being the lowest responsible tenderer.

Not always do we have the ready money to buy all the materials, pay wages and build it out of his own resources. He goes to the bank and borrows money and a good reputation, he negotiates such advances as he may need.

He orders materials, sets men to work. As the job proceeds, engineers' certificates enable him to collect from those with whom he contracted, and the work goes on.

The highway finished, the bank repaid. Such repayments enable the bank to supply credit to other responsible borrowers.

A manufacturer gets a large order, with an early time limit for delivery. With only a hundred men, his factory cannot turn out the articles within the time required. With more men he can do it—but he lacks ready money.

Operating his factory, as a going concern, with a profitable order and having a reputation for integrity, he asks the bank to lend him what he needs to pay wages.

The bank makes him a loan. He takes on more men—They get wages. The goods are turned out, delivered and paid for. The manufacturer repays the bank with the agreed interest.

He has his profit and can spend some money developing new business to keep his men employed.

How does a bank make these advances—where does the money come from?

Banks, having branches throughout Canada, mobilize the surplus funds of millions of depositors, large and small, and based upon them, make credit available throughout the country as may be required.

Millions of little sums represent the toil, production and lifetime savings of Canadians—your fellow-citizens.

Safeguarding these deposits is the bank's first care.

Deposits of $1,000 or less—most of them much less—are owned by 3,770,000 out of Canada's 4,084,000 savings depositors. The total of all bank savings deposits in Canada is nearly $1,584,000,000; the average savings deposit in a bank is only $337.

Widely safeguarded by Canada's chartered banks these deposits furnish the credit that keeps "men at work" when used by Canadian business and industry—producing new realizable wealth from Canada's great resources. The country and all its people benefit.

In the field of business deposits, out of an average of 660,000 "current" accounts, 596,000 amount to $1,000 or less.

Savings deposits are, primarily, the basis on which banks can make loans.

Only the confidence of the people and their willingness to leave their money on deposit, enable a bank to lend money—and at small profit-margin to itself—serve the community.

We have mentioned the contractor and the manufacturer. The same process stimulates employment throughout the whole fabric of production, industry and commerce.

Loans to agriculture and for marketing agricultural products resulted in 1937, $48,249,000—9.9 per cent of all ordinary bank loans shown on the return to the Minister of Finance, October 31st, 1937.

Of this sum $57,490,000 went to farmers, cattlemen and grain raisers and $30,804,000 to fruit dealers, seed merchants and grain exporters.

Other bank loans went to municipalities and school districts; wholesalers, retailers, manufacturers of cars and dealers in lumber; pulp and other forest products; fishermen; fish packers and curers; public utilities including transportation companies; stockbrokers and bond dealers; provincial governments; mining men; churches, parishes; hospitals; and to charitable and religious institutions.

Canada's chartered banks defend and protect the safety of the funds of depositors—the millions of thrifty souls we have described, whose life-savings they entrust to their banks.

No Canadian depositor, even though the world-shaking events of recent years, has had to fear for the safety of a single dollar lodged with Canada's chartered banks.

The funds of depositors are their own—not a reservoir from which millions of thrifty souls may draw at will for any and every new financial experiment.

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

APPENDICITIS IN CHILDREN

It is generally known that appendicitis is a comparatively common disease. It is not generally known, however, that appendicitis is responsible for between 1,800 and 1,000 deaths each year in Canada. Particularly it is not known that it is a condition occurring among children. During one year, of the 1,381 deaths due to this cause, 470 were those of children under fifteen years of age.

We have secured recently from the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, some information regarding appendicitis, containing statements which are of great public importance.

The experience of this institution shows that appendicitis is a common ailment of children of all ages. When the condition is recognized early and is properly treated, the results are most satisfactory. If, however, there is delay in securing proper treatment and the condition is allowed to progress until the appendix ruptures, the not infrequent result is the death of the child despite all efforts to save him.

The condition calls for a repetition of what we have so often stated—early proper treatment is necessary if the patient is to be given a fair chance for recovery through the benefit of medical science. The physician cannot help those who do not come to his advice. The cause of delay in securing treatment generally rests with the parents who are unaware of the dangers that may accompany se-were abdominal pain. The "pain in the stomach" is thought but little of, and the child is frequently given a dose of castor oil or some other purgative which sets the digestive tract in motion just at the time when nature wishes it to be at rest.

When appendicitis occurs there is pain. Older children say it is cramp like and usually point it out as being in the region of the umbilicus. Younger children just point to the abdomen when asked where the pain is, and cry as if in pain. Usually there is nausea and vomiting. There is only one sensible thing to be done for the child with abdominal pain, and that is to call the doctor and refrain from giving household remedies. This may seem a needless amount of fuss and bother, and we are not suggesting that every stomach ache is appendicitis, but we do say that unless abdominal pain is always regarded seriously, cases of appendicitis will be neglected and children will continue to be sacrificed to procrastination.

HE CAME UNAWARES

The following poem is contributed by Mrs. Dorothy Pook, of Innisfail, a former resident of Bassano. The Recorder welcomes any contributions and will endeavor to publish these as space permits.

They told me the Master was coming To visit the town to-day And I wondered at those favored home He would be willing to stay.

And I thought while my heart beat wildly,

"What if he should come to mine?"

How I would strive to entertain

And honor the Guest Divine.

So I scrubbed and polished the wood-work,

Put cushions on every seat,

Fritted curtains in all the windows,

Decked tables with blossom sweet.

I went to the door so often,

And watched the hurrying sun,

I was worried for fear the Master

Would come ere my task was done,

And right in the midst of my duties

A woman came to my door.

She had come to tell me her troubles,

My comfort and aid to implore.

But I said, "I cannot listen,

Or help you any to-day.

I have greater things to attend to."

And the woman turned away.

Then a poor old man came begging,

Just for a piece of bread.

And I said, "I am very busy,

Won't you try elsewhere instead?"

Soon a little child stood by me,

With a face so fair and sweet.

A finger was bruised and bleeding,

And bare were the poor little feet.

And I said, "I'm sorry for you,

You are surely in need of care,

But I cannot stop to help you,

You must get your help elsewhere."

Then the Master stood before me,

And his face was grave and fair.

"Three times to-day I came to your door

And craved your pity and care.

"Three times you sent me onward,

Unhelped and uncomfortable.

And the blessing you might have had

Was lost

And your chance to serve has fled."

And I said, "Oh Lord, forgive me,

How could I know it was Thee?"

My very soul was shamed and bowed

In the depths of humility.

And he said, "The sin is pardoned

But the blessing is lost to thee

For failing to comfort the "least of Mine"

Ye have failed to comfort Me."
